2. Stock Splits

Infosys did not announce any stock splits in the last five years. The company's last stock split happened in 2018.

3. Major Events and Stock Price Impact

2022–2023 Buyback (Rs 9,300 Crore)

Before the buyback announcement, Infosys stock was moving slowly because investors were worried about weak global IT demand.

After the buyback announcement, the stock price increased slightly by around 2–4% because investors saw it as a positive sign.

The rise was temporary, and later the stock moved sideways again.

AI Shift – Infosys Topaz (2023–2024)

Infosys started focusing more on AI and launched Infosys Topaz.

Before this, investors saw Infosys mainly as a traditional IT services company.

After the AI push, investor confidence improved because the company looked better prepared for future technology trends.

The stock did not jump sharply, but the AI strategy helped support the valuation over time.

2025 Buyback (Rs 18,000 Crore)

Before the 2025 buyback, Infosys stock was under pressure because of weak global tech demand.

After the announcement, the stock reacted strongly and increased around 4–5% in the short term.

Investors viewed the company as undervalued and financially strong because of the large buyback size.

4. Conclusion

Infosys maintained regular dividend payouts and shareholder returns during the last five years. Buybacks improved short-term investor sentiment, while the company's AI strategy supported long-term confidence.

5. Infosys Stock Snapshot vs NIFTY 50

Metric	Infosys (INFY)
Open	Rs 1,515
High	Rs 1,538
Low	Rs 1,500
Close	Rs 1,530
52-Week High	Rs 1,733
52-Week Low	Rs 1,358

Stock / Index	1-Year Return
Infosys	~8%
NIFTY 50	~11%

Infosys slightly underperformed compared to NIFTY 50 during the period because the IT sector faced slower global demand and cautious client spending.
